

ZIRCODATA PRIVACY BREACH Impacted client Freedom of Information Application

SUMMARY

Monash Health is aware that ZircoDATA, a Victorian-based company we used to scan archived historical documents, experienced a data breach. We were recently informed that Monash Health data was involved in this breach.

Investigation analysis indicates that the Monash Health information involved in the ZircoDATA data breach relates to a selection of archived data from the family violence and sexual assault support units at Monash Medical Centre, the Queen Victoria Hospital, and Southern Health, limited to the period from 1970 to 1993.

For clients affected by the ZircoDATA breach who would like access to any of their impacted documents, please complete this form.

Please note: client information will only be released to the client following a strict verification process.
