

Monash Airway Course for ED Teams

Course at a Glance

MAC4ED is a high-impact, simulation-based course tailored for ED physicians and experienced airway nurses. It is appropriate for CPD, re-skilling and maintenance of airway confidence.

This immersive, full-day small group course provides participants with the opportunity to:

- Explore human factors and team dynamics in high-stakes airway care.
- Master the management of challenging airways, including CICO scenarios, intubation and tracheostomy emergencies.
- Engage in advanced simulation-training with intubation with Mac and hyper-angulated blades, bougie, stylet, FONA and LMA techniques
- Practice across a range of challenging airway scenarios, both anatomical and physiological: dealing with hypoxia, shock and metabolic acidosis
- Strengthen leadership and communication skills including airway teaching and supervision strategies.

Led by an experienced, multidisciplinary simulation faculty of anaesthetic, ED, ICU and CNS nurse clinicians, the course fosters open discussion, peer learning, and reflective practice in a supportive environment.

This course will ensure you meet your CPD requirements with confidence, enhancing your clinical skills and preparedness in high-risk airway scenarios.
